Mayor Lincoln Announces Policy Advisor Is Returning to Stanford, Senior Policy Advisor Position Open for Applicants

STOCKTON – Mayor Kevin Lincoln announced today that Policy Advisor Rajan Nathaniel has exited City of Stockton employment, and is returning to Stanford University to complete his senior year requirements for his Bachelor of Arts in Political Science. “During his tenure with the City, Rajan has provided strategic support in bringing about our priorities, objectives, and initiatives,” said Mayor Lincoln, “Although I am sad to see him go, I am cheering him on from Stockton.”

Rajan Nathaniel exclaims “It has been both an honor and a privilege to serve the people of Stockton this past year. I am incredibly grateful to Mayor Lincoln for allowing me to serve the city I have called home my entire life.”

Mayor Lincoln is launching a nationwide search to fill the open position within his administration. While Mr. Nathaniel filled the role of Policy Advisor, Mayor Lincoln is looking to hire a Senior Policy Advisor who will bring years of knowledge, wisdom, and experience in policy work to the Stockton Mayor’s office. “I am looking forward to this application process and meeting candidates who are passionate about serving this city” said Mayor Lincoln.

The complete job description, qualifications, and application for Senior Policy Advisor can be found here, effective Sunday, August 8th: www.stocktonca.gov/jobs
